The Magazine

For the past month, I've wanted to email you, but with school, work, and everything else, it kept slipping my mind. I received your magazine last night, and I enjoyed reading it. I want to tell you how good God has been to me. I really don't understand why He loves me the way He does, but I'm glad to have His friendship, confidence, and most importantly his love. I'm in the process of finishing school and building a career that will make me happy, and that will allow me to be my own boss. Creflo preached a wonderful sermon on Sunday, and it made me think about all the wonderful things that God has planned for me, so everyday I will try to remember thank Him. Leshia

Face It, Forgive It

Precious Times Magazine is a wonderful, refreshing magazine. I enjoy reading a magazine from a Black, Christian woman's perspective. I particularly enjoy the various lessons on forgiveness, relationships, and healing. For a young Black woman, it can be challenging to make a stand for Christ, especially when it comes to dealing with male relationships. Dr. Sabrina D. Black summed it up quite well in her article Forgiveness: Face It, Forgive It, and Forge Ahead. Reading this magazine has helped me realize that God has so much more in store for me than I could ever realize. After reading One Woman's Story, I realized that life does not have to be full of "hard knocks" for me to have God's favor on my life. In essence, I have been far more blessed than I have taken the time to realize. This magazine is a breath of fresh air every time I read it. It is full of character and moral fiber that some other magazines lack; it gets better and better each issue. I love the advice, realism, and last but not least the God in it. Tanesha Goshon

Linda Hollis

I just completed Dr. Hollis' article, and my heart weeps. Her voice was like a library of pure knowledge of a daily walk with Christ. I cherish each article she wrote for your magazine. Thank you so much for sharing her with us. Yvonne

I read Dr. Hollis' article, and I felt privileged that she shared so much of who she was with us. This void is one that I sincerely pray you carefully seek God to replace. I didn't know there was someone who could share God's Word so clearly and with volumes of encouragement. I will agree with you that God surely has a ram in the bush for us all. Phyllis C.

I cannot imagine how you must feel to have lost a member of the Precious Times family. First Corinthians 12:12 says we are all members of the body of Christ; I grieve the loss of this member. I rejoice in the opportunity to share with you and the family the reassurance I have in knowing her destination. Well done, Sister Linda!

Creflo and Taffi Dollar

Did you ask every question we wanted an answer! I really do like the way you go behind the camera and lights and ask about the rumors and perceptions. Keep going after the truth. Thanks for allowing them to address us. Kevin J.

This article was insightful. I learned a lot about the Dollars, and most of all, I heard their hearts. I am not really into televangelism, and I realized after reading this article that these two people see themselves as pastors not only to their two churches but also to anyone who will give them an ear. It gave me a sense of understanding that I didn't have before. Question, can you sit the other television ministers down, and let us hear from them? Carolyn B.
Pittsburgh, Penn.

I cannot believe how popular televangelism is in America. It almost has taken the place of the neighborhood church. I guess this is considered having church at home — just turn on the TV, hear the Word, and be accountable to no one. Why does
